

Chicago Tribune Magazine

FEBRUARY 29, 2004 • SECTION 10

ROOMS

BEFORE STANLEY PAUL PLAYS a swank society party, he cooks himself a meal in his cozy country kitchen. "This reminds me of my childhood," says the orchestra leader, who grew up in West Chester, Pa. Paul began collecting when he was 10 years old. He remembers buying a Tiffany lamp hanging over his kitchen table (not shown) for $1. Most of the memorabilia came from house auctions and secondhand stores. His best find was the 1929 Magic Chef six-burner stove. "I wanted the big stove so I could put large woks across the six burners," says Paul, whose specialty is Chinese.

Kathy Kaplan

TRIBUNE PHOTO BY BILL HOGAN